Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from A Speech The Senate, as in Committee of the Whole, having under consideration the bill (H. R. 8328) defining: butter, also imposing a tax upon and regulating the manufacture, sale, importation, and exportation of oleomargarine - Mr. Miller. Mr. President, the bill under consideration is House bill 8328, having for its object, as the title indicates, to define butter and to impose a tax upon and regulate the manufacture, sale, importation, and exportation of oleomargarine. I think no bill has been before this body for many years which has excited so much public interest as this. It has been the topic of conversation and of discussion both in newspapers and in public meetings from Maine to Minnesota. The great body of the American people have been interested in the question, and they have taken the trouble to make their views known to Congress. During the present session we have received here petitions signed by at least fifty thousand American citizens praying for legislation similar to that contained in this bill. Some five or six thousand in all, I think, have petitioned against its passage. The number of petitions going to the other branch of this legislative body have been much larger in number than those which have been received here. Every Senator has found his daily mail filled with petitions and with letters from leading citizens from all portions of this country praying for the speedy passage of this bill. The interests involved are very great. On the one hand they comprise all our people, for all our people are consumers of butter. On the other hand the dairy interest in this country reaches into...
